PRESS RELEASE

Corporate Communications, Inc. Wins Davey Design Award

North Conway: The winners of The 2006 Davey Awards were announced this week by the International Academy of the Visual Arts. Kim Beals and the staff of Corporate Communications, Inc. of North Conway, NH were among the winners.

More than 3,500 entries were received from ad agencies, production houses, in-house creative, design and public relations firms from around the world for this prestigious, creative award. The Davey Awards honors the finest creative work from the best small firms, agencies and companies worldwide. Corporate Communications, Inc. took home a Silver Award for their design and copywriting skills for the White Mountain Waldorf School Capital Campaign brochure. This colorful multi-page brochure is currently being used to raise funds to build a new campus for the growing school.

Corporate Communications, Inc. is a full service advertising and public relations company based in North Conway. In addition to consulting to a number of clients, from small country businesses to Fortune 50 companies, they also produce five tourist maps and guides that promote Mt. Washington Valley and the White Mountains. They also design and manage websites that promote tourism and businesses in northern New England.

Beals, president of Corporate Communications, Inc. said "I am especially proud of the work we did for the White Mountain Waldorf School. We were able to capture the essence of their mission and educational philosophy in a way that resulted in not only an award-winning brochure, but also a visual piece that educates others about the Waldorf goals and successes in teaching children. One of the joys of designing this brochure was integrating actual student artwork and parent photography into the overall design."
